

THE INTERNATIONAL VELUX AWARD CELEBRATES ITS TENTH ANNIVERSARY AND LAUNCHES THE 2014 EDITION

The VELUX Group has launched the 2014 edition of its biennial Award that promotes and highlights the talent and capacity for innovation of students of architecture worldwide. Participants are invited to explore the theme of the Light of Tomorrow, in the widest sense, and demonstrate the performance and potential of daylight as an ever-relevant source of light and energy. The Award seeks to stimulate an open-minded and experimental approach that extends the boundaries of daylight in architecture including aesthetics, functionality and sustainability. Since its creation in 2004, the Award has been run with the support of the International Union of Architects.

PARTICIPATION

The Award is open to students – individuals or teams, registered in a school of architecture for the period 2013/2014, together with their teacher. Registration takes place on-line on the VELUX website. There is no registration fee. Projects will be presented digitally and up-loaded on the competition server.

JURY

Craig Dykers, Snohetta (N/USA)
Roisin Heneghan, HeneghanPeng (IRL)
Magda Mostafa, UIA (Egypt)
Catherine Slessor, Architectural Review (UK)
Per Arnold Andersen, VELUX (DK)

PRIZES

The total prize money is 30 000 euros that will be awarded to prize winners and their teachers. Up to 10 honourable mentions will also be awarded. The jury may award special prizes for categories or themes.

MAIN DATES

- . Deadline for registration: 3 March 2014
- . Deadline for up-loading projects: 2 May 2014
- . Official Awards ceremony: October 2014

INFORMATION-REGISTRATION

All details are available on the VELUX site:

<http://iva.velux.com>

INTERNATIONAL VELUX
AWARD 2012
Winner: Bo Li, Ge Men

MORE INFORMATION
WWW.UIA-ARCHITECTES.ORG